

Be Peace. Choose Peace. Create Peace.

Position Announcement—Writer

Peace Through Action USA seeks volunteers to develop issue sheets intended to help others learn about interventions, curriculums, and practices (we call them "peaceful practices") to cultivate inner, interpersonal and collective peace (and overcome aggression and violence).

Our "Peaceful Practices" series will be helpful to various customers groups, including K-12 and higher education students looking for source information for papers and presentations and people looking for introductory material on peaceful practices or seeking to teach others in their community.

Peaceful practices to be addressed in the series include meditation, mediation, nonviolent communication, peace education, social and emotional learning, violence interrupters, and many more!

Each issue sheet in the series shall be about two-pages single-sided and will include sections on practice summary, appropriate practice settings, evidence of effectiveness, practice history, and referrals to additional sources of information.

This opportunity may be well-suited for a high school or college student with course or service requirements, an encore volunteer with curiosity, or a working-age adult between jobs or looking for a way to volunteer on their own schedule and from their own location.

We have posted a position description for this opportunity at <http://www.peacethroughaction.org/volunteer/>.
