Position Announcement—Essay Contributors

Peace Through Action USA seeks volunteers to write or audio or video record essays between 350-500 words length on peace promotion and violence prevention topics. The essays will serve to build empathy and stimulate action taking by essay receivers. Also, the essays will contribute to Peace Through Action's body of resources. See an example essay here.

Essayists may select a topic of interest to them. See our list of aggression and violence types and our Peaceful Practices Inventory for suggested topics.

We anticipate essayists will draw from personal experiences as survivors of, witnesses to or perpetrators of violence; deliver subject matter expertise in a peace promotion or violence prevention topic, or simply share an informed opinion or position on a social or cultural or news development relevant to the Peace Through Action audience at the time of their writing.

Peace Through Action will publish the essays in its enews letter and website and disseminate them through its social media. We strongly encourage essay writers to amplify their writings through their own networks.

To volunteer, send an brief email of interest and summary of qualifications to people@peacethroughaction.org. A writing sample is welcome but not required.
