OUR HELP FOR POSTSECONDARY ORGS & STUDENTS

We can help college and university student affairs divisions, civic engagement centers, service clubs & Greek-Letter chapters, career and technical schools, and workforce development programs develop peace skills and intentions of your students.

TEACH PEACE TO YOUR STUDENT LEADERS

Use our essential peace skills and practical peace solutions resources to equip your resident advisors and mentors for constructive problem-solving while engaging with their peers.

TEACH PEACE TO YOUR STUDENTS

Mobilize your student leaders or student body to teach their peers our workshops on compassion, constructive communication, and conflict resolution, bit by bit or on a single day.

POSITION YOUR STUDENTS FOR SOCIAL CHANGE

Use our Peace Through Action Meet-Ups activity to help your students identify social development actions they can take while enrolled and after graduating.

OUR HELP FOR POSTSECONDARY ORGS & STUDENTS

Our Activities and Resources

- Essential Peace Skills Trainings—intensive learning experiences (90 minutes) focused on core communication and conflict resolution skills that people can apply across many social contexts. Participants learn, practice, and reflect through scenarios.
- Practical Peace Solutions Sessions—brief workshops (30 minutes) that demonstrate how constructive communication and conflict resolution skills work in real-life situations. Participants learn and practice core techniques through role-plays.
- Peace Through Action Meet-Ups—small-group gatherings (75 minutes) that guide participants through action planning and discovery of social well-being resources. Participants leave with steps to increase peace in their relationships and communities.
- Activity Delivery Package—guide, worksheets, and supplement to help users of our activities plan, prepare, present, and report on their sessions.

Our activities and their resources are available to postsecondary orgs & students at no cost, provided they agree to deliver activity sessions and collect participant information.

Activity Uses

- Course Assignment Completion—Instructors can suggest our activities to students with oral presentation, teaching demonstration, or practicum assignments. Our activities will interest students of adult education, applied sociology, criminal justice & community corrections, communication studies, community development, community organizing & social activism, hospitality management, human resource management, human services, industrial-organizational psychology, peace & justice studies, practical theology, public health, social justice, social psychology, and social work.
- Service-Learning and Civic Engagement Requirements—Instructors and student affairs administrators can suggest our activities to students with service requirements for course completion or graduation.
- Student Leader Training—Student affairs administrators can use our activities to train their resident assistants, peer educators, peer mentors, tour guides, and other staff.
- Student-Led Activities—Student governments, clubs, and Greek-Letter chapters can use our activities to connect and develop their members.

Our Services

We support postsecondary organizations and students in using our activities and their resources with brief activity orientations, individualized consultations on activity selection & application, and training in activity delivery. Costs for our services range from complimentary to modest fees, depending on the intensity and volume of the service.

Take the Next Step—Email programs@peacethroughaction.org to schedule a consultation on using our activities to increase your students' social competencies and safety, belonging, and peace in your educational community.
